

ALAN A-DALE

Nelly: Right then, welcome to the class everyone. Well sit down, sit down. Willy, budge up a bit and let the new girls sit there.

Willy does so.

Alan: Now, let's start with Biology. Can you name me four animals from Africa?

Alan: An elephant and three lions.

Nelly: No, that's not correct. Okay, let's try some History. Where was the Magna Carta signed.

Alan: At the bottom!

Nelly: No, you're being silly! Okay, let's do some Geography. What shape is the world?

Joan: Terrible!

Nelly: Come on, what shape is the world?

Alan: I don't know. Flat?

Nelly: No... what shape is my hat?

Alan: Square.

Nelly: No, this is my weekday hat. What shape is it on a Sunday?

Alan: Round?

Nelly: Exactly. So what shape is the world?

Alan: Square on weekdays and round on Sundays!

Nelly: No, no, no! Right, can you name the seven seas?

Alan: Umm... Atlantic.

Nelly: That's one.

Alan: Pacific.

Nelly: Two.

Alan: Indian.

Nelly: Three.

Alan: Mediterranean.

Nelly: Four.

Alan: The Baltic.

Nelly: Five.

Alan: Antarctic.

Nelly: That's six. Come on, what's the seventh sea?

Alan: Umm...

Nelly: Anyone else?

Willy jumps up.

Willy: The Vitamin C!

Nelly: For goodness' sake!
